Re: MUR 5153
Friends of Barbara Boxer and Michael Ohleyer, as Treasurer

Dear Mr. Scurry:

We are writing on behalf of our clients, Friends of Barbara Boxer and Michael Ohleyer, as Treasurer, in response to the November 20, 2000 letter the Committee recently received from Chairman Wold along with the proposed Conciliation Agreement, Factual and Legal Analysis and other supporting documents enclosed with that letter. We appreciate your courtesy in granting us additional time to research the issues raised by the Commission and prepare this response. The following response begins with a general statement and then generally follows the categories set forth in Appendix "A" to the Commission's Factual and Legal Analysis.

I. General Statement

During the course of the 1998 election campaign, Friends of Barbara Boxer raised over $15.6 million in contributions, $2,500,000 of which was received and processed between October 1 and November 23, 1998. During the 48-hour notice period beginning October 15, 1998, the Committee filed approximately 336 48-hour notices, an extraordinary number of disclosure reports which were filed within a very compact period of time. These 48-hour notices were in addition to three regular reports filed by the Committee just before and after the November 3, 1998 election.

The Committee places a high priority on accurate and timely disclosure. During the campaign, the Committee devoted substantial resources and personnel to the task of complying with Federal campaign finance and disclosure laws. These individuals worked diligently to comply with the complicated laws governing Federal elections. At all times, the Committee exercised good faith in attempting to comply with these laws and provide full disclosure of the campaign's financial activities to the public. On numerous occasions, representatives of the Committee contacted FEC personnel attempting to obtain advice regarding reporting and compliance with Federal Election laws and regulations.

While the Committee undertook all reasonable efforts to ensure compliance with the 48-hour reporting requirements, the Committee's reports suggest that at least some of the contributions listed by the Commission on Appendix A may not have been properly reported during the 48-hour notice period. If that is the case, such omissions resulted from inadvertence, rather than from any intent to deceive the public or avoid complying with the laws. In many cases, the Committee actually over-reported contributions, leading to some of the inconsistencies pointed out in the Commission's analysis. Such errors are inevitable in light of the high volume of activity experienced by the Committee during the last days of the campaign, and the complicated laws governing the reporting of joint fundraising contributions.

II. Contributions Directly to the Committee

Based on the explanations below, we believe that the Committee substantially complied with the 48-Hour Notice requirements with respect to the following contributions:

A. Individual Contributions

Kiesel, Paul

The Committee received a joint check for $1,000 from Paul and Dana Kiesel on October 19, 1998. The Committee filed a 48-hour notice for Dana Kiesel. It was later determined that the joint check was signed by Paul Kiesel, and was reported as such on the Post-General election report. Therefore, while the 48-hour notice did not reflect a contribution from Paul Kiesel, the Committee nonetheless filed a 48-hour notice for this $1,000 contribution during the 48-hour reporting period.

Simmons, Timothy
(West Gastroenterology Medical Group, a partnership)

The committee received a check for $1,000 from the partnership, West Gastroenterology Medical Group on October 20, 1998. The Committee appropriately filed a 48-hour notice for the partnership. The Post-General election report reflects the partnership contribution and the attribution of this contribution to Timothy Simmons as a memo entry. While the 48-hour notice did not reflect the attribution, the Committee nonetheless filed a 48-hour notice for this $1,000 partnership contribution during the 48-hour reporting period.

B. Political Action Committee Contributions

The following contributions were received by the Committee on October 14, 1998, prior to the 48-hour notice period, but erroneously reported as received on October 15, 1998. Previously, the Committee filed amendments for other contributions that were received on the same day; however, the following contributions were inadvertently omitted from that amendment. Enclosed with this response is an Amendment to the Committee's Pre-election report for the period 10/1/98-10/14/98 reflecting the corrected receipt date of these contributions on Schedule A, Line 11(c), page 5a. We have also amended the Post-General election report for the period 10/15/98-11/23/98 to remove these contributions from the report. The original amendments are being filed simultaneously with the Secretary of the Senate.

American Veterinary Medical PAC	$1,000
EMILYS List	$5,000
MEBA PAF	$1,000
PASS PAC	$1,000
Paul Magliocchetti Associates PAC	$1,000
Total:	$9,000

In addition, the Committee received notification of the following in-kind contribution after the expiration of the 48-hour notice period:

Handgun Control PAC

$3,222.77 (in-kind)

We previously advised the Commission about this in-kind contribution in our February 24, 1999 letter to Robert Yap. Originally, the Committee was informed that Handgun Control PAC would be billing the Committee for the travel expenses reflected in this in-kind contribution. It was not determined until well after the 48-hour notice period expired that these expenses would be donated as an in-kind contribution, rather than an expenditure paid for by the Committee. The Committee received notice of the in-kind contribution by letter dated November 30, 2000, and reported the amount on its Post-General election report as having been received on October 26, 1998, the date the in-kind travel expenses were incurred. The Committee attempted in good faith to comply with the reporting requirements, and reported this contribution immediately upon becoming aware of it.

III. Contributions from Fundraising Representatives

The contributions listed in this section of Appendix "A" were all contributions received by the Committee through joint fundraisers.<sup>1</sup> While 11 C.F.R. §102.17(c)(3)(iii) requires committees participating in joint fundraising activities to report the individual contributions as received on the date the fundraising representative receives the individual contribution, the issue is not so simple as it relates to 48-hour notices. Because of the very nature of joint fundraising committees, a participating political committee may not know the exact amount it will receive from an individual contribution until it is processed and distributed by the fundraising representative. Therefore, a participant may not know whether a contribution allocated to the participant will reach the $1,000 threshold to require the filing of a 48-hour notice.

At the time a fundraising representative receives a check, it must determine, along with the joint fundraising participants, whether or not the participants are entitled to receive full or partial allocations of each contribution. Consider the following example. A joint fundraising committee consists of three participants operating under an allocation formula which divides each contribution 33% among the participants. If the joint fundraising committee receives an individual contribution of $3,000, that contribution will be allocated $1,000 to each participant.

If, however, the contributor has already given $500 to one of those participants, that participant may only accept $500 of the allocated contribution, with the remaining $500 reallocated under the joint fundraising agreement to other participants who may accept those funds (e.g. a party committee). In that instance, a 48-hour notice would not be required of the participant who received only a $500 distribution. Therefore, until the contributions are processed, a participating committee may not know whether a contribution is required to be reported on a 48-hour notice.

This is particularly true during the latter stages of a campaign (when the 48-hour notice period is in effect), at a point where many of the contributors have already contributed directly to the campaign. In the case of Friends of Barbara Boxer, at the end of the 1998 campaign, the Committee often received considerably less than it was otherwise entitled to receive under the joint fundraising allocation formulas because many of the contributors had already made direct contributions to the Committee. Thus, it would have been premature and inaccurate to report the full amount of those contributions as they were received by the joint fundraising committees.

If a committee were to do the opposite and report every contribution received by the fundraising representative during the 48-hour notice period, the result would be confusing. In fact, this would lead to over-reporting of contributions, and would lead to additional inconsistencies between amounts listed on 48-hour notices and the subsequent post-election reports filed after the contributions have been processed and distributed.

This issue apparently has caused some confusion even within the FEC, as the Committee and others in the regulated community have received conflicting opinions regarding the 48-hour notice requirements of joint fundraising participants. For this reason, during the campaign, the Committee attempted in good faith and to the fullest extent possible to disclose joint fundraising proceeds, leading, in some instances, to the conflicting reporting dates cited by the Commission in its analysis.

In addition to the above, we provide further information regarding the following specific contributions received by joint fundraising committees:

Hooper, Palma

On behalf of Victory Fund '98, a joint fundraising committee, the Committee received a joint check in the amount of $1,000 from Palma Hooper and Raymond Hooper on October 17, 1998. The Committee filed a 48-hour notice on October 19, 1998, reflecting a $1,000 contribution from Raymond Hooper. It was later determined that the joint check actually was signed by Palma Hooper, and was reported as such on the Post-General Election Report. Therefore, while the 48-hour notice did not reflect a contribution from Palma Hooper, the Committee nonetheless filed a 48-notice for this $1,000 contribution during the 48-hour notice period.

Marcas, Michael
Shaugnessy, Charles
Byrne, Katherine
Rice, Laura

The Committee received a transfer of funds allocating $1,000 to each of these contributors on November 3, 2000. This receipt was after the close of the 48-hour notice period. Therefore, the Committee was not required to file 48-hour notices for these contributors.

Murray, Maureen

The Committee's original report reflected a $1,000 allocation from the Women's Victory Fund joint fundraising proceeds. However, this amount was erroneous. The report should have reflected a $333.00 allocation, which was corrected on a subsequent amendment. Thus, a 48-hour notice was not required for this contribution. In fact, the Committee refunded the $333.00 contribution to the joint committee because it represented an excess contribution from this contributor. This example, again, demonstrates the difficulty involved in Line 12 reporting and reconciliation, particularly in the 48-hour notice period.

IV. Other Mitigating Factors

The Committee urges the Commission to consider all mitigating factors which may impact the amount of any penalty to be assessed. While some of the contributions received by the Committee during the 48-hour reporting period may not have been disclosed during that period, all were ultimately disclosed by the Committee on its reports. Therefore, the public's interest in full disclosure ultimately was served.

Further, as stated above, the Committee recognizes the importance of full disclosure, and placed a high priority on accurate and timely reporting throughout the course of the campaign. The Committee has continued to amend its reports upon determining that amendments were necessary to ensure complete disclosure. Nonetheless, as we sit here today over two years later, it is difficult to reconstruct all of the reasons why some of the 48-hour notices may not have been filed. However, consistent with the Committee's policies, any failure to file such notices resulted from inadvertence, not from any effort to avoid compliance with Federal Election laws.

V. Conclusion

In light of the above, we believe that some of the alleged violations are erroneous, justifiable or have been clarified by way of amendment. We have enclosed an amendment that addresses some of the issues raised by the Commission, and the Committee is prepared to file additional amendments which the Commission deems necessary to ensure full disclosure of the Committee's activities.

We appreciate this opportunity to present our position, and we await the Commission's further response.

Very truly yours,

Stephen J. Kaufman
